

Marketing Release

1st September 2010

Transponder Technologies (www.ttonline.com.au) are pleased to announce the appointment of Kentronics (www.kentronics.com.au) as the official service and repair provider for TT's T5 range of electronics.

Transponder Technologies (TT) is a private Australian-owned company that designs and manufactures fuel management and fuel dispensing solutions for the commercial and retail fuel sectors. TT's systems are found in a diverse range of scenarios from retail forecourts through to fuel farms on mine sites. One of TT's product lines is the T5 set of electronics which is the core of TT's 805 range of pumps and dispensers. This same T5 core is provided to additional OEM manufactures.

Kentronics is Australia's premier repair and service organisation for all electronics related to the Petroleum Industry. Kentronics has been operating since 1996 and continues to grow based on excellent customer service, superior technical skills and cost-effective outcomes. With a focus on rapid turnaround, Kentronics ensure that business continuity is achieved through minimal downtime. Kentronics are extremely proud of the reputation they have within the industry and continue to focus on new ways to improve and deliver better results.

The products covered under this agreement are TT's T5 set of electronics including processor card, power supplies, retail and commercial displays as well as interface cards. The T5 electronics are contained in the following TT products and may also be found in other OEM products in the Australian market.

- TT805 Dispensers
- TT Fleetline Retrofit Head
- TT Pacesetter Retrofit Head
- TT Bulk Meter Register

For repairs to any of these units, please contact Kentronics directly...
